

Solving Power Problems of Telecom Customers

Communications providers work in a variety of diverse businesses, but their core power needs converge at specific fundamental aspects. Concentric has spent 25 years solving power problem in critical infrastructure. Below are two real customer examples of how a solid power partnership can ensure uptime and allow telecom companies to focus on what really matters - serving their customers.

Most important partnership requirements

Senior Manager in charge of fiber optic deployment nationwide for 3,500 facilities

Manager of Engineering Operations for 200+ sites across 6 states